

ABSTRACT

A concrete stamping apparatus includes a roller with a stamp forming its surface, and a receiving portion for rotatably holding the roller. There is also a system for delivering fluid to the roller along its surface, such that it releases easily from the concrete. The receiving portion can be 5 adjustably weighted, such that the roller will stamp the concrete uniformly as the concrete tightens.